Edward J. Bloustein Dictionary Collection Bibliography

Christine Becker

Abstract

Keywords

Library; Libraries; Rutgers; Bibliography; Dictionaries; Bloustein; Lexicography

Full Text:

PDF DJVU

DOI: https://doi.org/10.14713/jrul.v61i0.18

Edward J. Bloustein, American university administrator, law educator. Bar: New York 1959, Vermont 1971. Member National Association State Universities and Land Grant College (Chairman 1984), Phi Beta Kappa. The Bronx, New York City, United States of America. He served in the United States Army from 1943 to 1946. Later, Bloustein earned a Doctor of Philosophy degree in 1954 from Cornell University, and entered Cornell Law School earning a Bachelor of Laws in 1959. Bloustein began his professional career as a law clerk to Judge Stanley H. Fuld of the New York State Court of Appeals, serving from 1959 to 1961. He then joined the faculty of the New York University School of Law until 1965, when he was named president of Bennington College. Edward Jerome Bloustein (January 20, 1925 – December 9, 1989) was the 17th President of Rutgers University serving from 1971 to 1989. He was born in New York City, and he graduated from James Monroe High School in the Bronx in 1942. He served in the United States Army from 1943 to 1946. He received a Bachelor of Arts degree from New York University in 1948 and subsequently traveled to the University of Oxford as a Fulbright scholar and received a Bachelor of Philosophy degree in 1950. Returning to the Triggs, Jeffery A. (2005). Exploring the Edward J. Bloustein dictionary collection. Journal of the Rutgers University Libraries, 61, 28-47. Retrieved from https://doi.org/doi:10.7282/T3TM7CWM. AbstractEdward J. Bloustein, was a man with a keen and informed interest in lexicography, and now the Rutgers University Libraries are fortunate to be in possession of his extensive personal library of dictionaries. These range from Thomas Cooper’s Latin/English glossary, Thesaurus linguae Romanae et Britannicae (1573) to the Webster’s Third New International Dictionary (1961) edited by Philip Gove, though the main periods of concentration are the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries, during which time the dictionary as a genre evolved into its recognizably modern forms.