Description:

Foundations for Multilingualism in Education: from Principles to Practice equips pre-service and in-service educators with the knowledge and skills they need to make informed language and literacy education decisions in multilingual schools. It also shows multiple pathways for advocacy through classroom and school practices and policy-making, and sets an agenda for research from a multilingual perspective. This foundational text takes a comprehensive, pluralistic approach to theory and research on multilingualism in education. De Jong goes beyond traditional discussions about "the best bilingual or multilingual model", and introduces four core principles that are applicable across a wide range of multilingual contexts: 1) Striving for Educational Equity, 2) Affirming Identities, 3) Promoting Additive Bi/Multilingualism, and 4) Structuring for Integration. Readers learn to apply these principles to practice, policy-making, and research in bilingual, multilingual, and English-medium school contexts.

Multilingualism is shown to have a key influence on the language teaching professional though the practice of it often contradicts established practices. Specifically, the case of young professionals and language teacher trainees, who have been facing established "one-language-one-teacher" paradigms during their school experience in a particular national or generational setting, highlights the on-going need for change in the field of training language professionals as agents of multilingualism. Furthermore, the pan-European concern of suitable language-teacher education in and for multilingualism needs to be concerned with context-sensitive implementations in a given national or regional environment. multilingualism in practice. When we take the time to learn about different cultures and ethnicities, then the diversity this education provides offers added strength and self-confidence to the individual. Multilingualism is the ability of an individual speaker or a community of speakers to communicate effectively in three or more languages. Current research...begins by emphasizing the quantitative distinction between multilingualism and bilingualism and the greater complexity and diversity of the factors involved in acquisition and use where more than two languages are involved (Cenoz 2000; Hoffmann 2001a; Herdina and Jessner 2002). Thus, it is pointed out that not only do multilinguals have larger overall linguistic repertoires, but the range of the language situations in which multilinguals can participate, making appropriate language choices, is more extensive.
