This monograph is meant for researchers of South Asian studies with advanced interest in history of the late fifth-century CE. The new study proposes a reconstructive chronology of the times. It clarifies that the fifth-century rock-cut more. This monograph is meant for researchers of South Asian studies with advanced interest in history of the late fifth-century CE. The new study proposes a reconstructive chronology of the times. These disturbances in India now forced the migrant Gandhāran and the resident Deccani monks to escape to distant lands including Kucha in Central Asia. Consequently, there was catalysed the Kuchean Period III, which witnessed the introduction of many Gandhāran and Deccani ideas. Finally Buddhagupta ousted the Alchons in ca. South Asian Archaeology. Investigating the material culture of South Asia. Home. Eventually, I began my dissertation archaeological fieldwork in 2013 by focusing on three different regions of Karnataka: 1) Raichur Doab 2) Brahmagiri and 3) Koppa (Figure 1). The first two regions are in the semi-arid Deccan plateau and the third in the Western Ghats. A recent article in Nature titled "Early Middle Palaeolithic culture in India around 385–172 ka reframes Out of Africa models" has caused quite the uproar in news media in India and around the world, as it debunks the long-believed theory that complex tool-making emerged in the subcontinent after an influx of modern Homo Sapiens from Africa approximately 130,000 years.
