Perel promoted the concept of "erotic intelligence" in her book Mating in Captivity: Unlocking Erotic Intelligence (2006), which has been translated into 24 languages.[2] After publishing the book, she became an international advisor on sex and relationships.[3] She gave a TED talk in February 2013 called "The secret to desire in a long-term relationship",[4] and another in March 2015 called "Rethinking infidelity a talk for anyone who has ever loved." [5]. Perel is the host of the podcast Where Should We Begin?, which is based inside her therapist's office.

Erotic Intelligence " that's like "jumbo shrimp" and "spare change" and "free love," yes? In reality well, in reality I think of a joke: Two guys are sitting at the bar of a chic New York restaurant when a woman of astonishing beauty enters. Conversation stops. If she had her way, you'd never consult a manual again. You might, however, write a dirty letter about all the hot things you'd like to do to your partner " or that you'd like done to you. Or maybe you should start two e-mail accounts just for the sexual dialogue between you and your mate. But she's the mother of your child! But he's the guy who only gets his kicks from online porn!
