Description

Created in 2000, the Council on Botanical and Horticultural Libraries Annual Literature Award is given by CBHL to both the author and publisher of a work that makes a significant contribution to the literature of botany or horticulture. The award is presented at CBHL's Annual Meeting.

Its purpose is to:

- Recognize a work that makes a significant contribution to the literature of botany or horticulture;
- Increase the visibility of CBHL;
- Encourage participation by the CBHL community in recognizing significant contributions to the literature of the field.

This page lists all the nominated and winning books from 2003 onward until 2012. The nominees lists for 2000-2002 are unavailable, as is the list for the current year's nominees.

The books are hyperlinked to the catalog records of Michigan State University Libraries.
